Adam Grossi is an experienced Toronto commercial litigation lawyer. Adam practices many different aspects of commercial litigation with a focus on the construction industry, typically representing developers, contractors, suppliers and subcontractors. He is a creative problem solver and excellent strategist. Adam believes in taking a straightforward, pragmatic approach to achieving his clients goals. Adam has appeared before various Ontario courts, tribunals and administrative bodies, including but not limited to the ex-parte Construction Lien Court, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice (Divisional Court), the Ontario Municipal Board, the Ontario Human Rights Board, the Ontario Landlord and Tenant Board, and the Workers Safety and Insurance Board.

Adam's expertise is an asset to our clients as he recognizes how important it is to find the most suitable solution, which is most effective in litigation matters. Adam has represented clients in the following matters, including but not limited to: construction law, including construction lien, contracts and advisory matters, various municipal development matters, commercial disputes, shareholder disputes, debtor/creditor issues, employment, and landlord tenant issues.
